Report of Yesterday's Sessions
In Both Branches.

ABOLISH ELECTORAL COLLEGE.

Lengthy Discussion of Julian's Bill
In Regard to Oaths of Officers of Banks, Railroads Etc.

The following proceedings in the senate and house of the North Carolina legislature are condensed from the Charlotte Observer:

The Senate met at 10 o'clock and prayer was offered by Rev. Dr. Norman.

A petition of the citizens of Sampson county for the appointment of a cotton weaver was presented by Senator Robinson.

A bill to investigate the agricultural and other departments was reported favorably; as were also a bill to repeal the act regarding the distribution of dead bodies.

Bills were introduced as follows: To re-establish the criminal court of Hertford; to appoint a cotton weaver at Dunn; allowing Reidville to issue bonds for water-works reported favorably; to repeal chapter 311, Laws 1895; to protect fish in Alleghany county; to appoint tax collector in Hertford; for the better government of Hertford county; to regulate the duties and powers of constables and to validate proceedings based on processes served by them; to appoint a tax collector for Salem; to amend the charter of Salem; to amend section 2,831 of The Code; for the relief of A. T. Houser; to amend section 148 of The Code.

A bill to repeal the charter of Elizabeth City and a bill empowering Louisville to issue bonds for improvements passed final readings.

The bill to empower Charlotte to issue negotiable bonds for waterworks and sewerage passed second reading.

Senator Cooke's resolution, that United States Senators be elected by the people, was unanimously adopted.

At the request of Senator Wood, a bill introduced by him to establish a fish cultural station in North Carolina, passed its readings. It is to be a United States fish hatchery.

Senator Glenn introduced the following: "Resolved, That no bill of a private nature be introduced until after February 15th." He said he thought all public bills would be introduced before that time, and that no matter of private bill should be taken up until then unless it was of extreme importance. The resolution was referred to the committee on rules.

Upon motion, Mr. E. B. Norvell was voted for enrolling clerk, the vote being 45 ayes and no noes.

The senate adjourned at 11:30 a. m.

IN THE HOUSE.

The house met at 10 o'clock, and Rev. James B. Avirett offered the opening prayer.

A favorable report was made on the bill raising a special committee to look at the acts of 1895 and 1897 and decide which of them are meritorious.

There was also a favorable report on the resolution providing for a complete investigation of the penitentiary, with power to enforce the attendance of witnesses, the fine for refusing to attend and give testimony being not less than $100 nor more than $1,000.

There was an unfavorable report on the bill to repeal all the acts of 1897, and on the one prohibiting the employment of convicts on state farms.

After the introduction of large number of bills and resolutions, the calendar was taken up.

There was quite a debate on Julian's bill to repeal the act of 1897, which requires all officers of state banks, railroads and other corporations to take and file oaths. Overman championed the bill, saying it was an insult to the business men of the state, and ought to be wiped from the statute books. He said the private banks in Salisbury were obeying the law and lending at 6 per cent, while the national banks were charging 8 per cent and were not taking any oaths. Mr. Stevens opposed the bill and said many corporations were violating the law, and that they did not wish to take the oath. He declared his belief that there was something behind this bill. Mr. Justice said the law was a stigma upon the character of a particular class of men.

Mr. Allen said he knew of cases in which national bank officials did not take any oath, though a Federal statute required it. Mr. Rountree said he thought the law was not of any use. He said the law also applied to persons as well as corporations, and that it did not apply to such a corporation as the Virginia and Carolina Chemical company, which is chartered in another state. Mr. Justice thought it easier to detect persons who violated the law if the usurious interest of this law were kept on the statute books. Mr. Craig saw no good reason for the repeal of the act. He was no enemy to corporations, but deemed them necessary to government. If the usury law is not right, repeal it. If it is right, then let all the lawstand which tend to enforce it. The officers are not required to take the oath annually, but only when they take office, for they are officers of the state.

Mr. Allen said that state banks which took the oath were, to his knowledge, placed at a disadvantage as compared with national banks, which do not take it. Mr. Overman said it referred not solely to banks, but to all corporations. A motion to re-refer the bill to the judiciary committee was lost.

Mr. Hartwell said the directors of cotton mills, to his knowledge, took the oath annually. He declared the law to be cumbersome, inconvenient, and useless. If it is referred to banks alone he would favor the retention of the act, yet it would not prevent a banker from violating the 6 per cent law.

The previous question was ordered. Mr. Johnson, of Sampson, demanded the yeas and nays. The bill failed to pass second reading, yeas 40, nays 71.

A resolution declaring that senators should vote directly for United States senators was taken up. It was adopted without discussion. It calls on the senators and representatives in congress to use all their influence to have such an amendment to the constitution submitted to the legislatures of the various states.

A resolution raising a special joint committee to examine the public laws of 1895 and 1897 and ascertain which of them are of value, was adopted.

A bill was passed amending the act in regard to the working of convicts on roads in Anson county, amending chapter 252, public laws 1897.

A bill to repeal all public acts of 1897 was tabled. The bill repealing the act of 1897, providing for working Northampton roads by taxation passed.

By consent, Mr. Overman introduced a bill to amend, revise and consolidate the charter of Salisbury and Mr. Robinson a bill to amend the charter of Fayetteville.

After the announcement of committees the house went into the election of enrolling clerk. E. B. Norvell, democrat, and E. C. Capps, republican, were nominated. Norvell received 94 votes, Capps 18. Mr. Johnson, of Sampson, populist, was excused from voting, saying his party had no candidate.

A resolution to raise a special joint committee of five to investigate the penitentiary came up. (To investigate the management for the past four years, the committee being given wide latitude and full authority.) There was no debate. The resolution was adopted.

The bill passed allowing the Bank of Fayetteville to reduce its capital stock from $200,000 to $100,000.

Another bill to repeal the act requiring banks, railroads and other corporations to take the oath came up. Mr. Ray rebuked the house for ignoring the report of its judiciary committee. The bill was, on motion of Mr. Winston, re-referred to the committee.

A resolution was adopted asking the secretary of state what fees are allowed county officers under existing laws. (It is all in the fee bill.)

At 12:40 the house adjourned until 10 a. m. today.

Mr. Carroll is added to the committee on education; Mr. Julian to that on railroads.

Carolina Locals.

See Lee's sleeping man tonight with his new pair of shoes from the Carolina Shoe Store.

There may be other sleepy men in town, but there is only one sleeping man in the Carolina Shoe Co's store, he is not wright, but is in the right store.

Lee's sleeping man has not moved over a dozen times since he has been sleeping in the Carolina Shoe Co's store window. Do you blame him? Think where he is.

Lee's man will be awakened at the opera house tonight, but we have been, and always are wide-awake. Carolina Shoe Co.

THEIR TIN WEDDING.

Celebrated By Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Hutcherson of Reidville.

By Wire to THE TELEGRAM.
Reidville, Jan. 11.—Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Hutcherson last night celebrated the tenth anniversary of their marriage, by one of the most brilliant and delightful receptions ever given in Reidville. Nearly one hundred invited guests were present and were royally entertained. Mr. and Mrs. Hutcherson had made elaborate preparations for the entertainment of their guests and nothing had been left undone that could add to the enjoyment of the evening. People were present from Danville and Salem, Va. and Greensboro.

The collection of presents was the most varied imaginable and when placed together occupied no small space. Almost everything manufactured of tin was represented in the collection.

At 11:30 the serving of an elegant supper began. Oysters, quail-on-toast and a variety of lighter refreshments were served in a most delightful manner.

It was after midnight when the guests began departing, leaving many pleasant words and wishes for their host and hostess. It was an evening never to be forgotten by those who attended.

"WE MUST BE JUST."

In the heat of the late campaign which was made on the color line, many well-meaning and kind-hearted people became impressed with the idea that the white people should no longer pay money to educate the colored race. It would today be astonishing to know the number of good people of North Carolina who hold these views still. Whether right or wrong, (and there is little to prove they are right,) it must be admitted that the ingratitude of a large per cent. of the colored population, particularly manifested during campaign and election times, is becoming most exasperating and severely tries the spirit of tolerance of the white people.

Taking only this view of the situation many people who are honest and who desire to be perfectly fair, have reached the point where they believe it is nothing but right that the negroes should educate themselves with their own money, and that not a cent of taxes paid by white people should go into the colored school fund. But after the warmth generated by the campaign has in a measure worn off, thoughtful people have begun to turn the question over and look at the other side of it.

Such a step might, and certainly would, involve the principle on which our free school system is founded. It would be the first stride in the direction of forcing every man to educate his own child, a condition which North Carolina is by no means ready to face.

Writing on this subject, the Charlotte Observer takes a very liberal and humane position and under the title, "We Must Be Just," writes as follows, its expressions being so timely and so eminently just that we give them double-leaded space:

"The newspapers of the state are beginning to line up in opposition to the idea of amending the school law as to give all the school money raised by taxes on the whites to the white schools, and only that raised by taxes on the colored race to the colored schools. This would, of course, close every public school house for the colored race, which would mean the condemnation of these people to utter ignorance. It is said by some persons that education spoils the negro. Heaven knows that the amount of education gotten out of the public schools of this state is not enough to spoil anybody. At best, only the rudimentary principals can be had—the child can learn to read and write and cipher a little. To say that the negro should not have this little, is to say that he should be reduced to the level of the brute creation. A great and humane people cannot afford to deal thus with any class of human beings. We cannot afford to consign these people to a condition like that in which their forefathers in Africa were found by the slave-dealers. They are here with us, through no seeking of their own, and, as we have heretofore said, we must do them right. We cannot allow them to give government to us, but must take care of them in their sphere, and this we will not do if we extinguish to them the light of the lamp of knowledge, which burns flickeringly enough as it is. It is true they pay little taxes, but they constitute the labor of the state; they produce a large part of its wealth, even if they do not own it; they are our servants and in many cases our friends. Let us not deal unjustly or even unkindly with them, merely because we can."

"O, it is excellent to have a giant's strength; but it is tyrannous to use it like a giant."

MR. ANDREWS' VERSION.

Anent The Widely Published Report of Attempted Suicide.

A report was widely circulated yesterday that Greek O. Andrews had attempted suicide by asphyxiation at the Hotel Dunbarton in Washington Sunday afternoon. Mr. Andrews has many friends in Greensboro, where his father and mother reside, and we reproduce the following special to the Morning Post, containing a statement from him in regard to the affair:

Washington, Jan. 10.—Greek O. Andrews, a newspaper man of Raleigh, is at the Emergency Hospital here as a result of being overcome by illuminating gas at the Hotel Dunbarton, adjoining the Metropolitan on Pennsylvania avenue, last evening. Mr. Andrews says it was an accident. Until he recovered consciousness his identity was not known as he registered under the assumed name of G. L. Adams, and when he disclosed his true name he said he was from New York. He will be discharged from the hospital tomorrow morning.

During this evening several men who said they knew Andrews, called, but did not leave their names. Mr. Andrews asks that The Post publish his statement of the affair. It is:

"I was returning to Greensboro from New York. From Greensboro I intended going to Raleigh after spending a day or two with my family. My father and mother live in Greensboro. I was until a few months ago president and general manager of the Raleigh Post. During my stay in New York, where I was for ten days, I was attacked with grip. I had a serious case of it. Upon arriving in Baltimore I went into a hospital, where I remained several days. Then I came on to Washington, intending to stay here a day or two to complete some business arrangements. I stopped at the Hotel Dunbarton Sunday afternoon. While trying to take a nap in my room I discovered that there was an odor of gas about me. It did not occur to me, however, that it originated from the jet in my room. I paid no attention to it and fell asleep. I must have remained so for some hours. I did not know that the room was filled with gas till I was aroused by the door being forced. I was quickly removed in a dazed and semi-unconscious condition and brought to the Emergency Hospital, where I was soon resuscitated by good treatment. I did not know until I was informed at the hospital that my room was full of gas, and that I had so narrowly escaped asphyxiation. I did not turn on the gas, and cannot imagine how the jet was opened. I never in my life contemplated suicide."

The smallest things may exert the greatest influence. De Witt's Little Early Risers are unequalled for overcoming constipation and liver troubles. Small pill, best pill, safe pill. Howard Gardner.

SANTANELLI LAST NIGHT.

His Exhibition Again Enjoyed By a Large Audience.

In spite of the very inclement weather a large audience was at the Academy of Music last night. After a short talk Mr. Santanelli called for volunteers and about a dozen, all of whom are residents of Greensboro, took seats on the stage. Of these, five made good subjects and Mr. Santanelli put them to all kinds of tests. The audience laughed until they almost wished for a few minutes intermission for rest.

Perhaps the best part of the program last night was the young man hunting his name. He kept the audience in an unbroken row of laughter for ten minutes and finally learned that his name was Mary Ann Jenkins.

It is impossible to mention half the ridiculously funny things the young men are made to do while under the hypnotic spell. The performance has to be seen to be in the least appreciated.

The clergy, physicians and other professional men are so impressed with Mr. Santanelli's work that they have secured a promise from him to give an exhibition and lecture exclusively for their benefit.

Tonight there will be a complete change of program. Nothing is repeated at anytime except by request.

Coughing injures and inflames sore lungs. One Minute Cough Cure loosens the cold, allays coughing and heals quickly. The best cough cure for children. Perfectly harmless. Howard Gardner.

A major in the Cuban army, who recently organized a band of desperadoes and has been terrorizing the Baracoa district, has been killed by Captain Gallano, of the Cuban army, who pursued the band with a party and brought back the major's machete and spurs.

Horrible agony is caused by Piles, Burns and Skin Diseases. These are immediately relieved and quickly cured by De Witt's Witch Hazel Salve. Beware of worthless imitations. Howard Gardner.

AN EXCITED LAWYER

A CASE THAT WORKED HIM UP TO THE BURSTING POINT.

The Outrageous Conduct of Juror No. 6 and the Explanation Which Changed the Counsel's Anger to Limp Bewilderment.

"In my 20 years' experience as a practicing lawyer," said a well known member of the bar at the Lawyers' club the other day, "I don't believe I ever went through a more exciting trial than I took part in out at Freshold, N. J. When I say exciting, I mean exciting for me, for I was the only one who appeared to be concerned about the conduct of the man who occupied the sixth seat in the jury box."

"The case was a civil action, and I represented the plaintiff. It was a small matter, and we were suing for only $500, but as my client happened to be a personal friend, and he was more anxious to establish a principle than to collect any money, I was out to win. The judge was a sensible individual, who slept most of the time, and the jury looked as though it had been drafted from the hayfields. I scored well for my client with the first witness and was looking out of the corner of my eye to see what effect the point had had with the jury, when I noticed the man in No. 6 scowling furiously at me. When I continued to make headway with the next witness, he shook his head, scowled and looked as though he'd like to eat me up. The rest of the jury-men kept watching him, and I began to think I was up against a pretty stiff proposition."

"Finally I threw a question at a witness, which if honestly answered I knew would establish our claim to damages. No. 6 evidently thought so, too, for he rose from his seat, shook his head vigorously at the judge, and leaning over the rail waited for the judge's decision, for by this time the defendant's counsel had made an objection. 'The judge ruled against me, and No. 6 fell back into his seat and laughed as though it was the funniest thing he had ever heard. I was mad clean through by this time. Such outrageous conduct I had never seen in court. 'Your honor,' I began protestingly. 'Go on with the case,' roared his honor. 'But, sir,' I began, 'this is the most extraordinary—' 'Go on with the case,' interrupted the judge once more, and seeing it was vain to protest I went on."

"Well, this thing went on all through the trial. Every point I made brought a scowl to the face of No. 6. Every point my opponent made brought smiles to his face. When I summed up, he kept shaking his head vigorously and saying things in an ugly tone, but under his breath. Once he threw his hands up in the air in protest, and I got so mad that I could have hauled him out of that box and thrashed him with pleasure."

"When the defense summed up, the fellow grinned with delight. He shook his head approvingly at all the lawyer said, and once, when the lawyer indulged in abuse of me, he clapped his hands together as though he was dying to applaud. During the judge's charge he scowled and smiled alternately, according to which side his honor favored."

"We're gone," I whispered to my client, 'and I never engaged in a better case than this. Rather than submit to such a barefaced steal I'll fight this case through every court in the state, and without a cent of fee too.' 'The judge had finished by this time, and the jury had risen to go out. To my utter astonishment, No. 6 jumped over the rail of the jury box, and going over to where the defendant and his lawyer sat clapped the former on the shoulder and said in a loud voice, 'You'll win sure.' Here my indignation got the better of me. Rushing over to No. 6, I took him by the arm and wheeled him around."

"See here, sir, the jury has retired, and you might better be with them than talking to the defendant and his counsel. 'Why should I be with 'em?' he replied. 'Why, good heavens, man, can the jury deliberate while they're elsewhere?' 'Don't know why not,' he replied. 'I ain't no juror.' 'Then who the devil are you?' I demanded. 'He's my hired man,' put in the defendant."

"Then what was he doing in the jury box? Why, concern it, there wasn't another seat in the room," said the hired man. 'Didn't suppose I was going to stand up, did you?' 'I went back to my seat, completely bewildered, and as I sat down the jury came in, having been out five minutes. They gave me the verdict, and I was truly the most astonished man in the state of New Jersey at that moment."

"I found out afterward that before I began active work in the case juror No. 6 had been sick for a week and that the other 11 jurors had been acting without him under instruction from the court."—New York Sun.

False Alarm. Wife (time, midnight).—Hark! Husband, wake up! I hear the rustling of silk and the clang of chains. Husband.—You do? Horrors! Then the reports are true. I was told this house was haunted. Wife (much relieved).—Oh, is that all? I was afraid that Fido had broken loose and was tearing my new ball dress.—London Fun.

Green is the color most beneficial to the eye in diffused light and reds and pinks the most harmful. In a strong direct light, however, blue and neutral tints are the best for the eyes and pure white the most harmful, as is proved by the phenomenon snow blindness.

When You Have a Bad Cold

You want the best medicine that can be obtained, and that is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. You want a remedy that will not only give quick relief but effect a permanent cure.

You want a remedy that will relieve the lungs and keep expectoration easy. You want a remedy that will counteract any tendency toward pneumonia. You want a remedy that is pleasant and safe to take.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the only medicine in use that meets all of these requirements. This remedy is famous for its cures of bad colds throughout the United States and in many foreign countries. It has rivals, but, for the speedy and permanent cure of bad colds stands without a peer and its splendid qualities are everywhere admired and praised. For sale by C. E. Holton.

W. S. Lyon returned yesterday afternoon from a business trip in Mississippi and Louisiana. He says that the weather in those states now is severely cold, with snow and ice everywhere.

Misses Mary Goolsby, of this city, Maude Weaver, of Waverlyville, and Elsie Nichols, of Asheville, left at noon today for Danville to spend some time visiting friends. Misses Weaver and Nichols have been here several days visiting Miss Goolsby.

If the proper city authorities had put a few men to work on South Elm today, on account of the icy and slippery condition of the street, much delay and danger, it seems to us, would have been averted. The street cleaning department should wake up.

Horse Badly Hurt.

About noon today a fine bay horse, hitched in the rear of Wheeler Brothers stable, broke loose and ran away.
When running down South Elm street
the animal tried to turn into the alleyway by the Wakefield Hardware Company's store, but was unable to turn on the ice and ran against the building, cutting a large gash in his breast.
The wound bled profusely. The horse was led to Vanstony's stable, where Dr. Stewart sewed up and dressed the wound. The animal belongs to a Mr.
Starr from the country.

Opened Today.

The Spring term of Greensboro Female College began today. The opening is the most auspicious and encouraging the college has had for several years. Besides all the fall students returning, eighteen new ones have already been enrolled and several more contemplate entering soon.
President Peacock is doing a good work and under his management the college is steadily growing.
